

February 28, 2021

To Whom It May Concern:

During the summer of 2020, Holly Fiock worked as a part of my research team to write a manuscript for a special issue for the Online Learning Journal. As a part of this process, our team was required to review two other manuscripts that were being considered for publication in the special issue. Holly took the lead on completing the review for one of the manuscripts. She provided a thorough review of the manuscript, offering detailed, constructive feedback to the authors. I am confident that if the authors chose to incorporate Holly's feedback into the manuscript, they would create a stronger paper.

Sincerely,

Adrie A. Koehler